

SOCIETY and PERSONAL ACTIVITIES of WOMEN

Miss Marian Johnson of Indianapolis and Miss Loretta Moore of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Danner, Jr., 124 W. Colfax av. are entertaining Dudley Watson and Carl Kraft, of Chicago, during their stay in the city.

Twenty-five friends of Victor Collier gathered at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Collier, 2015 Lincoln way W., last evening to celebrate his 15th birthday. The children were entertained with music and games.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Yost, 1711 Lincoln way E., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ina Louise Yost, and Herbert W. Blatt, son of Mrs. M. W. Holmes, of Kikburt, Ind. No date has been set for the wedding.

The True Blue Girls met with Dorothy Noyes, 23 N. Notre Dame av., Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was spent socially and refreshments were served to 32 guests. The next meeting will be held the second Saturday in November at the home of Irene Snyder, N. St. Louis Blvd.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCarter, 1207 S. Lafayette Blvd., entertained with a miscellaneous shower Friday evening for their daughter, Gertie, who was married Sept. 27 to Harvey Nixon. The evening was spent socially and refreshments were served to 32 guests.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Entzian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Entzian, 505 N. Main st., and Neal Byron Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welch, 1150 S. Lafayette Blvd., took place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic church. Rev. William Mooney, C. S. C., officiating. They were attended by Mrs. Glenn Slick of Detroit, Mich., and Robert McAllister, Miss Wilma Evans and Dean Wilhelm of this city. The bride was unusually attractive in a street costume of sand colored pique tulle, which was fashioned with the long waist and side panels on the skirt falling below the hem. The sleeves were long and loose at the bottom. Bronze beads in a conventional design formed the simple trimming. She wore a large picture hat of black velvet and her corsage was of Killarney roses, sweet peas and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for 50 guests was served at the home of the bride's parents, the table being centered with a graceful basket of yellow chrysanthemums. The home was tastefully decorated with garden flowers and autumn foliage.

Mr. and Mrs. Welch left at noon on a motor trip to Detroit and Toledo. Mrs. Welch wearing a smart suit of navy blue tulle, braided and a close fitting hat of black. They will be at home upon their return at 1124 Cleveland av.

Mr. and Mrs. Welch are both graduates of the South Bend high school. Mr. Welch later graduated from Indiana university at Bloomington and served as captain with the 801st Pioneer Infantry in the World war giving 25 months of service, 10 months of that time being spent overseas. He is at present connected with the advertising department of the News-Times.

Honoring Miss Alice Reimold, whose marriage to Marland J. Neifwong will take place next Saturday, Miss Mabel Looker entertained 15 guests informally Friday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. P. C. Traver, 1010 Riverside dr. The feature of the evening was a miscellaneous shower after which Miss Reimold entertained with several vocal selections. Luncheon was served from a table centered with a silver vase of pink and white roses lighted with pink tapers in silver holders. Miss Ella Reiman, organist, on Monday evening the Misses Florence, Margaret and Helen Hill will entertain informally for Miss Reimold.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Foster, 1902 Woodland av., Des Moines, Ia., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irene M. Foster to Cleo Wedel, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wedel, of 1225 Lincoln way E., this city. The announcement was made at a party given recently by Mrs. Foster for her daughter. The wedding will take place Oct. 18 at Hoyt Sherman place. Mr. Wedel is a student at Still College of Osteopathy, and well known in South Bend.

YOUR HEALTH—

By Dr. R. S. Copeland

Did you ever pinch your finger and have a blood clot form under the nail? Did you ever get hit in the eye and have a black effusion under the skin? These conditions are due to an injury capable of breaking the wall of a blood-vessel and thus permitting the blood to leak into the adjacent soft tissues.

But there may be such leakage of blood, not the result of injury, but the result of disease. These spots may occur anywhere in the body. When the effusion is just beneath the skin it makes a stain like that you have seen in a "black-eye."

The doctor calls discoloration such as this "purpuric spots." The condition is known as "purpura."

Purpura is not a disease in the sense that pneumonia is, or scarlet fever, or malaria. Purpura is a symptom merely. It is a sign of some weakness of the blood-vessels or of some alteration in the blood.

It is not unusual for the skin to look blue, but in ordinary blood stagnation, due to sluggishness of the circulation, pressure of the thumb will cause the blueness to disappear. In purpura, however, there is a blue or purple spot which remains no matter how much you press it. It remains because there actually is a deposit of blood under the skin and outside the blood-vessel walls.

There are a number of causes for purpura. It is a common symptom in what we call the "malignant diseases," like typhus. It may be observed in measles and other "rash-es."

In certain constitutional diseases, like heart disease, Bright's disease, scurvy and various blood diseases, it may be a symptom.

Purpura is one of the signs of poisoning with mercury, quinine and snake bite. In severe snake poison purpuric spots are a conspicuous symptom.

Perhaps the most interesting form of purpura is that associated with nervous disturbances. It is found in locomotor ataxia and in various circulatory disturbances founded on the nerves.

This last form is rather mysterious. Its causes are not known. Perhaps some yet undiscovered poison floats through the blood and produces this symptom.

In children it sometimes occurs under the name of "simple purpura." There is no fever and no disturbance, except the black spots. They disappear within a couple of weeks.

A more serious variety is called "purpura hemorrhagica." Here we have fever, systemic disturbance, and occasionally, unfortunately, death follows.

Once in a while rheumatism of the joints may hasten purpura spots among its manifestations.

As I have said, purpura is not a disease. It is merely a symptom, and its presence is readily observed.

In the treatment, attention must be given the underlying condition. Whatever it is that has upset the general health must be removed.

When the tone of the blood-vessels has been restored to normal there will be no occurrence of the symptoms. The spots themselves will speedily disappear if there is no further leakage of blood.

Half asleep as I listened to the soft melody of the gondolier, I traversed the canals of Venice. The balconies overhanging the water, no matter how pretentious or how tiny, were filled with people.

Every hotel in the wonderful place boasts its open-air terrace for dining. Life in the open is the rule.

Along the bay at Trieste the houses have flat roofs. Here the natives can bask in the fresh air. In at least four places in the grounds about the home of Prof. Lorenz, outside Vienna, are tables and chairs for out-of-door refreshment and rest. A short promenade on the terrace in front of the house, overlooking the Danube, is the place he takes his evening walk. On the roof of the Children's hospital in Vienna are 300 sunburned children, who live there day and night.

The doctors sleep on the roof. Prof. Pirquet, the director of the children's clinic, is there most of the time. When not in Vienna, this good man is out-of-town in his gardens and vineyards.

The out-of-door life accounts for the good appearance of many persons in Europe who have suffered great privations since the beginning of the war. There is a mysterious something in the sunlight which gives health and vigor. It seems actually to offset the lack of food.

Recently London celebrated "Sunlight Sunday." Everybody, especially the young folks, was asked to stay out-of-doors all day, if possible. London is wise. It does well to have a sunlight Sunday. But every Sunday, every Monday—every day.

FOR WORK OR AS A "HOME" DRESS

3809. Here is a very comfortable frock, with graceful lines, in one piece style. The pockets are a useful and attractive feature. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or in elbow length. Figured, percale, gingham, drill, linen, serge, mohair, saten, gabardine and taffeta are good for this model.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 yards of 36 inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12 cents in silver or stamps.

indeed, should be sunlight day. If it is cloudy or rainy it should be at least a fresh air day.

There is a form of tuberculosis known as "acute military tuberculosis." It is sudden and violent, lasts for a month or so, and is almost invariably fatal. Even such a terrible disease as this has been overcome by exposure to sunlight and uninterrupted out-of-door living. I saw such a case among the children in Vienna which appeared to be on the way to complete recovery.

There is no doubt of the virtues of sunlight, but all the benefits of daytime spent in the sunlight may be offset and ruined by night-times spent in close, stuffy, airless rooms. To live long and prosper there must be fresh air and light.

When the open-window practice is added to a life in the sun there is every prospect of reaching a hundred.

RUN THAT CINCHED WORLD SERIES

When E. Meusel of the Giants slid into the plate safely in the eighth inning of the last game of the world series, he scored what proved to be the run that settled the game in favor of the Giants. Ability to move about swiftly counts just as much in other games of life, and rheumatism sufferers know the distress of not being able to keep up with their fellows. A new prescription, Landon's 1909, has done and is doing much to relieve such sufferers. Put up for each individual case, this not a patent medicine and a trial will convince you of its lasting benefits. Priced $1.00 a bottle, it is for sale in Mishawaka at the Red Cross Pharmacy and in South Bend at the Central Drug Store, American Drug Store and Landon's, cor. Wayne and Michigan sts.
